

Bugzoola and the “Moosh Goosh Potion”

Deborah Ziolkoski ©2020

Once upon a time there were two very creative and interesting looking sisters. Bugzoola and her sister Lizzie. They were very kind and quite interesting looking characters. They had long, tangly hair which many of their favorite insect friends and snakes lived in. They also very curious looking eyebrows...or so I thought until one squiggled off their forehead right before my eyes! They just loved all their fuzzy and furry, creepy and crawly friends!

Bugzoola and Lizze grew up always helping their parents create and cook new recipes in the kitchen. Lizzie LOVED to cook some very unusual recipes using many interesting ingredients from their enchanted garden. Bugzoola took her love of creating things to their chemistry lab as one of Bugzoola’s parents was a scientist.

One day while Bugzoola was creating a new, special potion using some interesting ingredients when she accidentally tripped and SPLOOSH! The potion spilled ALL OVER HER! Well almost all over her...on everything except her head! She thought nothing of it, dried herself off and decided to take a break and go for a walk.

What Bugzoola didn’t realize was that she had created a disappearing potion! The only thing that anyone saw was her head walking down the street to the sound of her footsteps. Imagine that! A secret agent who lived close by found this very intriguing and thought he should follow Bugzoola back to her home and investigate. He watched as she once again started making her favorite recipe. All he could see was her head, the bowl and the potions being poured, splashed, mooshed and gooshed in the bowl. Suddenly however, he heard a loud sound and BugZoola grabbed her broom and flew out the door. Swoosh!

The detective thought this was a perfect time to investigate as it was of course, his duty to keep everyone safe! He didn’t want her to know she was being investigated so he decided to dust away his fingerprints. As detectives are trained to have a good eye for detail, he mixed the exact same potions that Bugzoola did hoping to recreate the potion. To test it out he thought his agents should play a game! Pass the Cauldron. He didn’t want to take all the risk after-all! Would you like to learn how to make the disappearing potion and play Bugzoola’s favorite game? Take a feather and listen closely! (Sing/say “Bugzoola’s Moosh Goosh Potion” to The Two Grenadiers – Suzuki – Volume II.).